Yes, an employee can avail ExL for emergency situations as highlighted in FAQ 3.7 and can apply for an approval at a later point.

3.9 I have 2 unused ExL left. Can I avail it?

No, you can only avail ExL in a block of minimum of 3 consecutive days.

4. Accumulation and Encashment

4.1 The carry forward limit is 45 for all leave types combined or it is separate for different leave types? The carry forward limits are separate for different leave types as follows:

Absence Type	Max Carry forward Limit in year X	Max. Entitlement in year X+1	Total leave balance in year X+1
EL	45	15	45 + 15
CSL	45	12 (Advance Leave)	45 + 12
ExL *	45	10 (Advance Leave)*	45 + 10*

* 15 days for employees observing 6 day work week and 10 days for employees observing 5 or 5.5 day work week

4.2 I have accumulated EL balance of 20 days on 31st December 2019. I have resigned and my last working day is 31st May 2020. How many mandatory EL can I avail? If unavailed, Will these mandatory EL lapse? During the year of separation, mandatory EL applicability is considered as zero. Therefore, there will be no lapse in mandatory EL during the year of separation.

4.3 My closing CSL balance as on 31st Dec 2019 is zero. 12 CSL credited as advance leave on 1st Jan 2020. I have resigned and my last working day is 31st May 2020. I have availed 8 CSL till 31st May 2020. How will it impact my full and final settlement?

CSL availed (8 CSL) is more than the prorated CSL eligibility as on 31st May 2020 (5 CSL). Therefore, there is a negative balance of 3 CSL. Such negative balance will be treated as a loss of pay and appropriate recovery will be done during full and final settlement.

4.4 I am an employee having a 5 day work week at Akurdi. My closing ExL balance as on 31st Dec 2019 is zero. 10 ExL credited as advance leave as on 1st Jan 2020. I have resigned and my last working day is 31st May 2020. I have availed 6 ExL as on 31st May 2020. How will it impact my full and final settlement?

ExL availed (6 ExL) is more than the prorated eligibility of the employee (4 ExL). Therefore, there is a negative balance of 2 ExL. Such negative balance will be treated as a loss of pay and appropriate recovery will be done during full and final settlement. If the employee has EL & CSL balance, he/she can use the same for such negative leave.
